Define the right peaceably to assemble.

Productive things and no-things.

Inventive things and no-things.

Sustainability.

The means to production.

The means to the above.

The right peaceably to assemble 'to assemble'.

This incorporates philosophy, religion, and the everyday.

This incorporates merit, the dialogic, dialectic with the material, and body-breath-mind-world-space.

Define the right to free ontologically free being free person.

The right to rights.

The right to a dwelling.

The right to a kitchen, library, resources, food, and like things and no-things.

The right to a sound economic model, theory, and function.

It be what? Multi-faceted. A world-space.

The right to philosophy, religion, and common sense -- and to logical and ethical theory and praxis.

The right peaceably to assemble.

The right to apropos, have the facts and accurate representation.

The right to a just and right-minded state of affairs.

The right to individual, collective, societal, corporate, national, and global life.
